The President Speaks

THESE are times when we all need to steady ourselves—to "be-think ourselves." Such times are here. We felt the impact of them on College Hill when our nation reeled under the unexpected blow at Pearl Harbor.

It fell to my lot in chapel next morning to offer some steadying word to our students, and I am asked to do the same here for our alumni.

All of us need for these days faith, courage, and kindness. There is always the temptation to doubt God. We must have faith, whatever befalls, to believe that God is, that He cares, that He will do right. The supreme proof of the goodness of God is in the fact that He sent Jesus to the world.

Then too, we need courage—courage to believe in God's better day, courage to do the common daily task, courage to meet the demand for sacrifice. It is easy to grow restive and restless but "they also serve who only stand and wait." As self-indulgent Americans, we have done little to cultivate the Spirit of Sacrifice, but that is the real meaning of the cross which we lift above our church steeples and sometimes wear as an ornament.

It is also well to remember before the sound of the Christmas bells dies away that we need good will even in war time to help us "do all that may achieve a just and lasting place among ourselves and with all mankind."

We are a nation welded from the peoples of all the earth. Let us show that here we know the meaning of kindness and good will that it may serve as a nucleus for its spread to all the earth when these terrible days of stress and strain are over.

"America, America, God shed his grace on thee,

And crown thy good with brotherhood, from sea to shining sea."

THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

The War and Juniata

REALIZING that the normal schedule and responsibilities of colleges and universities must be seriously changed, including dropping some of the more superficial features of college life and the intensification and addition of more vital aspects, due to our grave national crisis, Juniata is putting into effect a full emergency program.

In reporting to the student body on the important conference of five different groups of colleges and college teachers held in Baltimore from January 2-6, and called by the United States Department of Education and the Committee for Military Defense, President Ellis said that while strong emphasis was placed on the duty of winning the war, equal importance was placed on the necessity for providing for the post-war peace period.

Juniata has already started several types of service which her students and faculty are able to do for community and nation. One of the first and most important of these services is the Red Cross First Aid Training program, in which over 250 students and faculty members are enrolled. Two faculty and two students with instructor's certification have organized nine different classes for campus groups, most of which have already started their training. Juniata instructors also make up four of seven Huntingdon County instructors, now engaged in a teaching program which will eventually reach from five to seven hundred townspeople.

The ladies of the faculty are meeting on one evening of each week to sew for the Red Cross. This is in addition to Red Cross knitting, engaged in by many of the campus women.

A third service, incidentally also in connection with the Red Cross, is the opportunity to contribute to the War Relief Fund of that organization. Speaking in relation to this, President Ellis said, "We are in a time of sacrifice. If any of us can go on spending on himself for luxuries as before, we have failed to realize the significance of the crisis in which we find ourselves."

In regard to the colleges' task of providing leaders for the post-war peace period, two different ideas were emphasized by the college executives in conference and by representatives of the government. First of all, it was generally recognized that the patriotic duty of individual students and teachers is to stay by the present job until the Nation calls to another. The Army recommends waiting until the individual is called by the Selective Service Board. And while the Navy favors the enlistment of college men, they allow enlisted juniors and seniors to finish their college education before going on duty.

The second course of action recommended to the colleges is the intensification of the college schedule to allow men to finish their education before arriving at the age of twenty. This is being done at Juniata by widening the scope and importance of the summer session program and by increasing the scholastic program of the regular winter session at the expense of extra-curricular activities.

Other types of service and other changes will no doubt go into effect later. A special meeting of the Juniata Board of Trustees has been called for January 16 to discuss courses of action for Juniata in the difficult years ahead. It may mean unthought sacrifices, but Juniata must stiffen to the task of giving service in the present and providing leaders for the years to come.

Presenting . . .

One whose interests are widely varied, and whose continued devotion to Juniata has made him well-known—Dr. Norman J. Brumbaugh. His particular interest is the Chemistry department which he has ably headed for seventeen years. The unique and splendid records of his students is testimony of the character of his teaching and his executive ability. Dr. Brumbaugh's interest follows his students after they leave Juniata, and on his many trips he visits and investigates the laboratories of the large universities, keeping a watchful eye on the trend of the times.

Science, music, languages — these three are his chief concern. Dr. Brumbaugh speaks several languages, and recently has engaged himself in the study of Russian. He owns a remarkable collection of phonograph records in foreign tongues which enables him to secure the correct pronunciations.

These things would be enough to keep an ordinary man busy most of his waking moments, but Dr. Brumbaugh's energy and vitality are enormous. Recently, he has become addicted to the camera, and has acquired in a short time an amount of equipment which would make even the average amateur jealous. He likes golf and hiking and is full of the lore of the hills which surround Juniata. He knows people, too, and follows genealogical developments carefully. In short, Dr. Norman J. Brumbaugh is a man of many interests; all of them he pursues thoroughly. In him Juniata is fortunate, for he is one of the college's most loyal and devoted friends.

Family Circle

TIME and time over we've heard the expression, "the Juniata Family." Maybe it has been used so often that to some it is a trite, meaningless term. But the real significance behind "the Juniata family" was brought before us very vividly a few days ago. We saw an eight-inch, two column biographical sketch on Bill Livengood in one of our city dailies, and shortly thereafter we came across a paper announcing that Professor John Calhoun Baker had been appointed Associate Dean of Harvard University, and finally we saw the pictures of several of the younger Juniatians who had earned their commissions in the United States

Air Corps. Reflecting on the keen interest we felt in what these Juniatians were doing and on the way we all share the glory of any notable achievement by Juniatians even though we may never have known them personally, we really understood how deeply we are rooted in this "little college set in a thousand hills." As students we may fuss and fume at real or imaginary grievances, but as the years roll by we can appreciate more and more what Juniata College has done for us and how much we owe to the brief years spent under her mellow, scholarly influence.

Statistics

DO YOU realize that Juniata students drink from 1400 to 1600 gallons of milk per month and eat $450.00 worth of butter? While Juniata is relatively small as colleges go, we sometimes don't realize how large a scale operations are carried on, even in a small liberal arts college like ours. Here are some other statistics that may be interesting. The faculty of the college received their training at sixty-four different colleges and universities. We have on campus a total of twenty-five pianos. We burn 1500 tons of coal in the school year. Each month we consume $300.00 worth of electrical current. All the figures given in dollars are based on past years. It goes without saying that the cost of foodstuffs, fuel, etc., will and in some cases has already increased from twenty to forty percent. At present we who live on College Hill are thinking about conserving everything in every way possible. It is to our advantage and for the benefit of our country.

Mr. Parks

EVERY morning, early, a familiar figure hurries across the campus, disappears into the depths of the Library, to emerge several hours later and head for Science Hall. In his wake are cleanliness and order. To faculty and students alike he is a friend never too busy to listen attentively, or too silent to offer voluble comment. He is Mr. Parks. He is a member of thirteen years standing of the force that helps keep Juniata's halls presentable, and as such is a well-known and much admired friend of the college, whose interest he has deeply at heart.

Mr. Parks is the proud father of eight children, most of them now married, one in the army; but however far they go from home, his affection follows them and countless are the anecdotes he tells of their comings and goings. Likewise, he follows the news of the day, and has become a veritable "news commentator," knowing much about what goes on in the outside world, and passing his information along in cheerful morning chats with those he encounters as he goes his round in the Library and in Science Hall. Loyal, thorough, interesting, friendly, Mr. Parks is a true addition to the spirit which is Juniata's.

Successful Homecoming

ANOTHER successful alumni homecoming was observed on College Hill on Saturday, October 25. The weather this year was all that could be asked for, a welcome reversal of last year's stormy Oller Hall dedication.

The week-end's activities began with the alumni council dinner on Friday evening, which was attended by more than seventy council members. The dinner was presided over by alumni president Dana Z. Eckert, who also addressed the group. Past President William S. Livengood, Jr., and President Charles C. Ellis also spoke on "What Is Ahead For The Liberal Arts Colleges" and "What Is Ahead For Juniata". After the dinner meeting, the council separated into the two bodies of which it is composed, the class representatives and the officers of the local associations. In the class representatives' meeting, Paul Friend, '37BS, and Lillian Harbaugh, '31 AB, read papers on "The Reunion Before It Gets To The Campus" and "The Mechanics Of The Class Reunion". Telford Blough, '27AB, and Ned Rankin, '17ex, read papers

The Freshman — Sophomore rivalries were carried on with the usual gusto Saturday morning, including both the unofficial scrapping and the official hockey and football contests.

Unfortunately the Indians were unable to withstand the onslaught of a powerful gridiron aggregation from Washington College in the annual Homecoming contest, but the game offered many thrills and the weather proved to be perfect for a large audience of home-comers.

Past President of the Alumni Association "Bill Livengood, '26 AB, and Dr. Kenneth L. Smoke very ably handled the speaking roles at the annual "J" Club Banquet, Saturday evening. "Gabe" Chiodo, '40BS, served as toastmaster, while the "Three Chirps" sang several very pleasing selections.

The Alumni Spotlight

Rev. Jacob M.
Blough
M.A., D.D.

Rev. H. Stover
Kulp, M.A.

The Alumni Spotlight for this issue honors two men whose devotion to a life of service spreads good will to many in foreign lands.

FOR almost two score years the students of Juniata have been sharing in the mission work of India because they have been contributing to the support of a Juniata graduate and his good wife who went to that field shortly after their marriage in 1903. His wife is Anna Z. Detwiler, '20.

Jacob M. Blough was graduated from the Normal English course in 1899 and from the College in 1903. In 1920 Juniata conferred upon him the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree and in 1929 he received the M.A. degree from the Kennedy School of Missions in Hartford.

Dr. Blough was in the college when debate and not athletics was the great intercollegiate interest and he was for two years a member of the first and second teams. He was also active in the formation of the Boys Band which was the forerunner of the Y.M.C.A. His excellent scholarship made it possible for him to be appointed college instructor in Latin and Mathematics while pursuing his college course.

On the mission field his ability has been recognized by the positions which he has held at various times and for long periods. They include, manager of orphanage, manager of boarding school, principal of Bible school, as well as editor of Gujarati Sunday School Quarterly, Editor Christian monthly in Gujarati, Literature Missionary for Gujarat since 1930, Chairman Bombay Christian Council 1924, Chairman Gujarati Bible Revision Committee and Chairman of the Brethren Mission for many years. It will be clear that his service to the mission cause has reached far beyond the range of the Brethren mission to the other Christian groups in Gujarat especially.

IT IS appropriate for Stover Kulp, one of the pioneer missionaries of the Church of the Brethren in Africa, to carry in his name the designation of the pioneer missionary of the Church of the Brethren, Wilbur B. Stover.

As a student at Juniata, Stover Kulp distinguished himself on the varsity basketball, track, and debate teams. Following his graduation in 1918, he served one year as pastor of the New Enterprise Church. This was followed by three years in the pastorate of the First Church of Philadelphia. In 1920, Mr. Kulp received the degree M.A. in Education from the University of Pennsylvania. He has also studied at Hartford Seminary and School of Missions.

Going out in 1922, one of the two pioneers to blaze the way for a Brethren mission in Africa he has since given his effort to spreading the gospel in the Dark Continent. He has been Executive Secretary of the African Mission, Editor of a London periodical for African villages and has prepared several school books in the African languages.

A bronze tablet on the wall of the old college chapel at Juniata commemorates the devotion and service of Mr. Kulp's first wife N. Ruth Royer Kulp, also of the class of 1918, who died in Africa in 1924, four years after their marriage. In 1926, he married Christine Masterton a missionary of the Church of Scotland. They have two children, Philip, aged twelve, and Naomi, aged nine. The family is located this year at Huntingdon in one of the apartments of the Mission Home, and the College is glad for the inspiration of their presence on College Hill.

THE JUNIATA SPORTS PARADE

BASKETBALL

EARLY season predictions for the Indian basketball team were born out when they soundly trounced their sister college, Bridgewater, in the opener on the college floor by a 43—16 score.

Captain Tony Reklis

With six varsity men returning and several good sophomores out for the squad. Coach Swartz found prospects brighter than they have been for several seasons. Headed by Captain Tony Reklis, a senior guard, the squad includes two other seniors: Lee Simkins, a guard, and Lloyd Noffsinger, a lanky forward. Juniors out for the team include Herb Conley, and Bob Fields. In addition to Mickey Leeper and Hen Eisenhart, dependable veterans from the sophomore ranks, are Bob Quarry and Perc Blough from last year's frosh outfit and a newcomer, Stan Mickle. Ray Clapperton, who plays a smooth game at forward, and Kermit Kitman are the only freshmen to make the squad.

In their first game against Bridgewater, the Juniata boys played an excellent game, being especially strong on the offense. The Virginians did not get a clear shot all evening and made only five baskets. Time after time Clapperton and Quarry intercepted passes and the towering Eisenhart, Reklis, and Noffsinger continually tied up enemy efforts. The Indians led 19—7 at the half, increased the lead to 35—10 at the close of the third quarter, and with an entirely new team on the floor, were able to coast in to a well-deserved, 43—16 victory. Fine defensive play, steady ball-handling, and sterling bank-board work were what told the story.

FOOTBALL REVIEW

THE 1941 football season was not an unusual success for the Juniata Indians when one glances at their record, but when carefully analyzed, it was in a sense very commendable and speaks of better teams at Juniata. Confronted with a green squad of thirty-five, and the loss of the backbone of last year's aggregation, Coach Swartz had a considerable task to accomplish in the three weeks before the opening game with Susquehanna on October 18. The only seniors out for the team were Lou Valenzi and Tony Reklis, the former acting as captain due to the loss of Bill Bonnell to the army. Johnny Brenner, Captain-elect Hollis Zwicker, and Bill Thorn represented the junior class, while the remainder of the roster was composed of freshmen and sophomores. However, after three weeks of hard, conscientious work, Coach Swartz fielded what proved to be a rather strong, reliable eleven which was soon to prove its mettle.

The new edition demonstrated its ability when it traveled to Selinsgrove to overcome Coach Stagg and his graduation-riddled squad by the score of 15-14. On October 25 and November 1, the Indians were pitted against strong outfits from Washington and Westminster and went down to defeat by scores of 26—0 and 27—12. Although defeated, the Juniata gridders put up a stiff battle against the Titans at Westminster. On the rebound from these two defeats, the Juniata gridders beat American University, 16—3, on the home field before a large Parents Day crowd, on November 8. After a scoreless first half, the Indians began to roll, to be stopped only by the final whistle. In the final game on November 15, the Juniata eleven bowed before a strong Lebanon Valley team by the score of 18—0. The teams seemed fairly evenly matched at first, but the Dutchmen pulled a trick crossback play to give them two touchdowns, and gained another in a long march. Just before the game ended, the home boys opened a dangerous aerial attack which brought them within ten yards of the enemy goal.

Captain-Elect Hollis Zwicker

We look forward to the 1942 season with a good squad of varsity men. If we are able to hold this experienced outfit, the new year should bring a majority of victories to the Juniata warriors.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

The events of the past weeks have brought home more forcibly than anything one can write how serious, indeed is the threat to our American way of life. In a world, dominated by intolerance, treachery, and deceit, what place would there be for a college whose motto is Veritas Liberat.

Now more than ever we need to strengthen and make secure the institutions whose function it has always been to educate "free" men and women. No matter how heavy the demands on us from other sources, no matter what things we must sacrifice, the colleges must continue their work. This war must not be allowed to produce a "lost generation" of American youth, robbed of their birthright to a sound and adequate education.

We may need to pull up our belts another notch or two. We may find ourselves unable to buy some of the luxuries to which we have become so accustomed that they seem to us to be necessities. We may even be forced to decide whether we will hoard something for ourselves or whether we will give it for others. In the end we shall find that the only things we shall have saved will be those things we have given.

It is for this reason that I want to urge on every loyal Juniatian that you make this year a happy one—for yourself and for the college by sharing generously. In the days of stress ahead our government will exact from each of us more than we have ever given to it before. And we will give ungrudgingly because we have faith in the government of the United States. Shall we not, then, give just as freely and as willingly to the college that small part of the year's income,—the percentage of our "unearned increment" about which we talked in my last letter.

There has been a splendid response from many of you thus far but there are still far too many who have not yet made even a "token payment". If you are one of these, will you not please write that check now and mark it off on your list of New Year's Resolutions as one that you have kept.

Yours cordially,

DANA Z. ECKERT,
President

school when he had received the commission as a 1st Lieutenant due to having completed the medical R. O. T. C. course. Consequently, he gave up his private practice of medicine and entered active duty with the Army on March 5, 1941. His sister, Mrs. Mildred Miller Egan, is a graduate of Juniata in the class of 1941.

His extensive period of graduate work at Columbia has prepared John R. Beery for his new position this year as associate professor of education at the University of Miami. His address is The University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida.

T. Wilson Cahall, superintendent of the Federalsburg Schools and an active Rotarian, was recently instrumental in planning a largely attended Ladies' Night to which President Ellis and District Governor of Rotary, Chester Langdon were invited as guest speakers.

Charles Heitrick, assistant supervising principal of the Bellwood-Antis

High School, was given a send-off by the students, faculty, school board, and Lions Club when he left the service of the school and community to enter the army service. He was presented with a number of valuable gifts.

The church activities of the Reverend Wilfred Stauffer reach beyond his own New Enterprise Church of the Brethren. Among other things, he is the Middle District of Pennsylvania representative on the Brethren Service Committee. Mr. and Mrs. (Esther Harley) Stauffer have two children, Wilfred B., 5 years, and Ruth Elizabeth, 2½ years. They have been located at New Enterprise for six years.

The Reverend Frederic Witmer became rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Bethel, Conn., in April, 1937. He received his S.T.B. degree from Berkeley Divinity School, Yale University, in 1933. During the 1940-41 term, he pursued special work in the fields of preaching and missions at Yale Divinity School. Mr. Witmer's congregation in Bethel, Conn., is comprised mainly of those employed in the hatting industry. St. Thomas' Church was established there in 1834, and the present edifice is considered one of the loveliest in the State. The Diocese of Connecticut is the oldest Episcopal diocese in America, and is the cradle of American Episcopacy, the first bishop having been elected in Woodbury, near Bethel, in the year 1783 and consecrated in Scotland in 1784. In Mr. Witmer's own words: "My work in Bethel has been that of the average parson—preaching the Word of God, ministering to all people in their need, participating in local civic affairs for the good of the whole community. As yet I have achieved nothing remarkable in life. But thinking that I hold the distinction in Juniata College of being the only graduate who has ever entered the Episcopal ministry, I feel deeply the responsibility of bringing distinction to my Alma Mater in the days that lie ahead. To me Juniata College is the symbol and reality of all the best things that the world of higher education holds for the youth of America." Outside his immediate parish, the Rev. Mr. Witmer holds the following offices. He is national treasurer and member of the Supreme Council of the Pi Alpha Fraternity of the Episcopal Church; editor-in-chief of the newly-established "Greek Letter Quarterly" of the Episcopal Church. He also holds the commission of First Lieutenant in the Chaplain's Reserve of the United States Army. After graduating from Juniata, he served in the Diocese of Harrisburg under the direction of Bishop H. Wyatt-Brown, at Jersey Shore, Williamsport and Harrisburg.

Rev. Frederic Witmer

Mr. and Mrs. Witmer have a daughter, Ann, who is four and a half years old.

While attending Juniata College, Mr. Witmer became a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, Huntingdon, and, during his Senior year he was licensed a Lay Reader by the late Bishop James Henry Darlington, and conducted services in St. John's. It was from this parish, of which he is still a communicant member, that he was made a Candidate for Holy Orders in the Episcopal Church.
